CAPT. MORSE'S THEORY

Hawaii's Original Inhabitants
Came From America.

ESQUIMAUX OR AZTEC ANCESTRY.

Idea of a Sailor Lecturer And His Unique Proofs For the Same—Im-portant Question of Winds and Cur-rents Not Considered By Historians.

Captain H. G. Morse, late of the steamer Alameda, has developed into a lecturer since his retirement. His first appearance will be in San Francisco on November 22d.

Captain Morse commenced his long and eventful career back in 1844 on a thirty-ton schooner, which was en-gaged in the fishing trade on the Eastern coast, says the S. F. Chronicle. Since then he has sailed the Mediterranean, spent four years in the pepper trade on the west coast of Sumatra, has been engaged in the fur trade on the east coast of Siberia, and has made many trips to the coral islands of the Pacific, besides innumerable visits to every inhabitable spot in the broad Pacific ocean.

During his long career at sea Cap-tain Morse has had an opportunity for observing and studying the queer people who inhabit the many groups of small islands with which the broad Pacific is flecked, and at his lecture he will develop an interesting idea in respect to their origin. Captain Morse disputes the theory advanced by most writers, that the inhabitants of the Society Islands, the Hawaiian islands and the other island groups in the tropics came originally from Asia. He has satisfied himself that they came from America, and he is full of intelligent arguments in support of his theory.

"In the first place," said Captain Morse, in speaking of the matter, "we have every reason to believe that the natives of the Sandwich Islands came originally from the Society Is-lands. They have a tradition, which has been handed down by their fore-fathers, that the progenitors of their race came in canoes from the out-ward. Now in my estimation, it would have been impossible for the natives of the Society Islands to have made their way eastward from the coast of Asia to small canoes, when the winds and currents are all against them."

"I do not believe that the important question of winds and currents was considered by the historians who have attempted to settle this matter. The trade winds in the tropics blow from the east and strike the equator at an angle of forty-five degrees. To be more specific, the trade winds north of the equator blow from the north-east. Below the equator they blow from the southeast. The currents in the tropics follow the direction of the trade winds—that is, from east to west. Now, all the islands referred to are in the tropics, and it stands to reason that the slight canoes in which these ancient navigators traveled must have gone with the winds and currents."

"That the inhabitants of the islands off the east coast of Asia came from Asia, there is no doubt. We find on the Mar-hall and Solomon Islands an entirely different race of people from those who inhabit the islands further east. They are as black as jet, and their hair is short and curly. The natives of the Society and Sandwich Islands are light-complexioned and their hair is long and straight."

"These are not the only facts in support of the theory that the people in question are the descendants of the native Americans. There is a lot of old stone work in the Hawaiian Islands which bears a striking resem-blance to similar work found in Mex-ico. In the big Mexican Museum are many relics of the Aztecs which have a striking resemblance to relics of past generations of Hawaiians. It seems to me very plausible that at some re-mote time, ages ago, the islands I have referred to were a part of the American continent, for I cannot con-ceive how any canoe, built of the largest trees then growing, could sur-vive the storms and rough weather such as are encountered on the Pacific. However, in whatever way the na-tives of the Pacific Islands might have reached those isolated places, I am satisfied that they came from the coast of America, and not from the coast of Asia."

Among those present were: Pres-ident and Mrs. Dole, Miss Kate Field, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dilling-ham, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, Mrs. McGrew, Miss Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall, Prof. Richards, Dr. C. B. Cooper, Prof. Alexander, Dr. Mur-ray.

PARCELS DELIVERY.
Latest Bicycle Contrivance Seen Here for the First Time.

The latest use to which the bi-cycle is employed was seen in Honolulu for the first time yester-day. It is in the shape of a parcels delivery. The contrivance is sim-ply a bicycle extended and contain-ing three wheels—one in front and two behind. A square box, some four feet long and two wide, is placed on the rear wheels and so arranged that the weight is all on the back axle. When it is desired to deliver goods during rainy weather, an ornamental covered box can be placed on or over the open one. The entire contrivance is comparatively light; an ordinary man can make good time carrying as much weight as 200 pounds. The enterprising firm of Hall & Son had one of the vehicles on the streets yesterday. During the day a delivery of goods weighing two hundred pounds was made in re-markably quick time.

These little machines are being used extensively throughout Eu-rope and America, and are as handy an arrangement as could possibly be thought of. They are destined to revolutionize delivery of small and even large parcels here as else-where. The Bidwell-Tinkham Cy-cle Company of New York are the makers of this very useful inven-tion.

The wife of Mr. D. Robinson, a prominent lumberman of Hartwick, N. Y., was sick with rheumatism for five months. In speaking of it, Mr. Rob-inson says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that gave her any rest from pain. For the relief of pain it cannot be beat." Many very bad cases of rheumatism have been cured by it. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by all dealers. BENSON, SMITH & Co., agents for H. I.

PACIFIC TENNIS CLUB.
Monthly Meeting Yesterday—Min-ister Willis Honorary Member.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Tennis Club was held yesterday at 1 p. m. in the office of the Hawaiian Safe Deposit build-ing. There was a general discus-sion about tennis matters; also con-sideration of some of the by-laws of the Tennis Association. Nothing definite was decided on about the latter.

Robert Atkinson was admitted to active membership. Minister Willis was unanimously elected an hon-orary member of the club. Messrs. Howard Hitchcock, G. W. Norton and S. G. Wilder were named as a committee to look after arrange-ments and see that the courts were in proper condition on ladies' day.

Fished In Nuuanu Stream.
The police arrested thirty-two natives yesterday for fishing in Nuuanu stream, contrary to the reg-ulations of the Board of Health. They were released on their own recognizance.

THEIR MUSICAL ARTISTS.
Pleasant Evening at Rooms of the Kilohana Art League.

The first musicale given by the musical circle of the Kilohana Art League last evening was a decided success in every feature. The gen-eral program of the evening not only reflected credit upon the in-dividual participants, but also upon the members of the League, who have, by their persistent efforts, brought their organization to that state of prominence and prosperity as to make entertainments given by the various circles one of the social features of the city.

Just a comfortable roomful of the members were present at the cosy little hall last evening. With the products of the palette and brush artists still in evidence, and the tasteful decorations of the stage, for which Miss Hart and Miss Nolte were responsible, the surroundings were such as to please the most critical critic. Those who took part in the program included the most talented musicians of the city. Their efforts were well up to the usual high standard. Follow-ing is the program:

1. Concerted number..... Selected Dr. Day, A. H. Iseberg and Prof. Berger.

2. Vocal duet—Two Tuscan Folk Songs Miss McGrew and Miss Richards.

3. Piano solo—
(a.) "Happy Wanderer," Jensen
(b.) "Tarantella," A. D. Bissell Miss Castle.

4. Vocal solo—"The Wanderer"..... Schubert Miss Axtell.

5. Violin solo—"Reverie"..... C. Dancia Miss McGrew.

6. Vocal solo—"Since First I Met Thee"..... Lubenstein Miss Richards.

7. Piano solo—Selected..... Chaminade Miss M. C. Greene.

8. Vocal trio—Selected..... Selected Miss McGrew, Miss Richards and Miss Axtell.

Among those present were: Pres-ident and Mrs. Dole, Miss Kate Field, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dilling-ham, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, Mrs. McGrew, Miss Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall, Prof. Richards, Dr. C. B. Cooper, Prof. Alexander, Dr. Mur-ray.

THE NOVEMBER LABORS

Of the Young Men's Christian Association,

WHAT THE YOUNG MEN ARE DOING.

An Exhaustive Report Showing a Promising State of Affairs—Suc-cessful Efforts in a Noble Work. Successful Financially, Etc., Etc.

November has been a busy month for the Young Men's Christian As-sociation.

The Yatman meetings, held during the early part of the month, were largely attended and required much planning and hard work on the part of the members.

The gymnasium classes have kept up well, much interest being shown, as the gymnastic report indicates.

Also the evening classes, work in which gives promise of success in every branch. The average attend-ance at the gymnasium was as follows: For the young men's class, 13; busi-ness men, 8; junior class, 20; boys, 31; working boys, 12. There was a total of 33 classes held and an attendance of 665.

In the reading room and library, 59 books were in circulation during the month.

The reading matter for the current year has been chosen, a large addition being made to the former list. The Wall-Nichols Company were awarded the contract for supplying papers, their bid being the lowest received, $217 40.

Educational matters are progressing favorably with the association. Text-books for mechanical drawing have arrived and classes are already using them. The singing class is making good progress.

The junior department report is gratifying, much interest having been shown by the boys in the Yatman meetings. Of course the gymnasium is popular with the boys.

This branch also utilizes the largest proportion of books taken from the library. The committee hope to be able soon to add to the supply of liter-ature adapted to youth.

The vessels in port have been vis-ited on Sabbath mornings, as usual, by Mr. Purdie. Reading matter has been left aboard the ships and also in Oahu jail. These matters come under the jurisdiction of the "shipping com-mittee."

The report of the treasurer shows the receipts for November to have been $1094 15; expenditures, $1065 42; leaving a balance of $28 73.

The devotional committee have compiled a careful statistical review of the month. Four Sunday evening services were held at the hall and three at Oahu jail. The average at-tendance at the former was 147 and at the latter 85. Sixty-three meetings were held by Mr. Yatman, attended by a total of 8920 people.

Through this gentleman's labors a large number have been brought to acknowledge Christ as the savior of mankind, and some have already found their way into church mem-ber-ship. The thanks of the association are extended Mr. Yatman with pray-ers for his equally successful efforts in those lands through which he jour-nys on his trip around the globe.

Fifteen new members have been added to the Y. M. C. A. roll since October 31st. Five young men have obtained positions through the as-sociation's efforts.

Mr. Corbett, the secretary, is giving all his time and energy to his work, and his untiring efforts the pro-mo-tion of that which tends toward the betterment of the youth of Hon-olu-lu cannot be too highly com-mended.

His hands have been full during the past few weeks, not only with routine, but the extra labors entailed by the distinctive features mentioned above. Nevertheless, he has found time to arrange several matters of future in-terest. For instance, a New Year's reception to young men is under con-sideration, and every effort being made to bring it about. It will em-brace luncheon, to be served between the hours of 12 and 2 on January 1st, and also a concert performance in the evening.

Arrangements have been made to send a Christmas box to the Y. M. C. A. people at the leper settlement on Molokai.

A series of lectures are to be given during January and February of next year, a part of which have been ar-ranged for.

The association wish to send a mem-ber to the shape of some island product or manufacture, to Mr. Yat-man at his home in Philadelphia.

Annual Meeting of the G. A. R.
The annual meeting of George W. De Long Post, Grand Army of the Republic, was held last even-ing at their hall. The following officers were elected for the coming year.

Post Commander, R. J. Greene; Senior Vice-Commander, L. Adler; Junior Vice-Commander, Richard

Sherman Quartermaster, L. L. La Pierre, Surgeon, Dr. N. B. Emerson; Captain, Wm. McCandless; Officer of the Day, W. F. Williams; Officer of the Guard, Urban Conkling.

The ordinary meetings of this Post are held on the first Thurs-day of each month.

NEW YEAR RACES.
Much Interest Manifested in the Coming Meet.

Judging from the interest mani-fested in the New Year races the day will be a success without a doubt. Manager Charles David and his valuable assistant, Jack Gibson, are leaving nothing un-done to make the occasion a mem-orable one in racing annals. The track is in the finest of condition, and will be kept so by constant work every day. There are five trotting and six running horses now at the track, with several more to come from the other islands, among them being Cornwell's Billie C. The runners are all Ha-waiian bred, and in the best of form; three of them belong to Horace Crabbe, the others being under the care of Charles David.

Entries for the meet will close on the 15th inst., after which time there is likely to be some change in the program of the day. Four hundred dollars have been put in purses, divided equally between the four races. Mr. David has gone to considerable expense in getting up the races, and it is to be hoped the public will respond lib-erally in the matter of attendance.

The track is to be scraped three times each week: Mondays, Wed-nesdays and Saturdays. Bicyclists are invited to use it in the after-noon of those days, as nothing will be allowed to interfere with their practice.

AT MINISTER WILLIS'.
Mrs. Ellis Mills Pleasantly Usher- ed Into Honolulu Society.

The reception given by Minister and Mrs. Willis to Consul-General Mills and wife at the American legation yesterday afternoon was an emphatic success.

The people in general were in- vited, and the people responded to the invitation, about three hundred attending. Mrs. Willis did the honors, assisted by Miss Kate Field, the noted journalist; Miss Kate McGrew, Miss Harriet Lewis, Miss Crane, Miss Richards, the Misses Young, Miss Cora Hennighan, Miss Von Holt, Miss Thrum, Miss Ani Afong, Miss Sadie Carter, Miss Bada Arnold, Miss Judd and Mrs. Boyd. The rooms were tastefully decorated, an especial feature being the banking of the massive mental pieces with beautiful carnations.

Mrs. Mills wore an elegant cos-tume of white satin and point lace. Mrs. Willis was robed in a lovely yellow silk, trimmed with violets. A light repast was served, and the affair passed off in an extreme-ly pleasant manner, much being due to the excellent tact of Mrs. Willis and her most charming assistants.

YOUNG HAWAIIAN INSTITUTE.
Regular Monthly Meeting Last Evening at Foster Hall.

The Young Hawaiian Institute held their regular monthly meet-ing at Foster Hall last evening. There was a large attendance, and the following gentlemen were elected to membership of the active rank: J. M. Poeppoe, J. D. Crockett, J. H. Harbottle, J. A. Ahong and C. J. Hoyt. Mr. W. C. Weedon was elected a member of the honorary rank.

G. L. Desha, J. M. Kea and J. K. Prendergast were appointed a com-mittee to investigate the standing of members of the active rank. Members were instructed to notify the institute of any illness among their members and committees will be appointed to visit them.

When most needed it is not un-usual for your family physician to be away from home. Such was the expe-rience of Mr. J. V. Schenck, editor of the Caddo, Ind. Ter. Banner, when his little girl, two years of age was threat-ened with a severe attack of croup. He says: "My wife insisted that I go for the doctor, but as our family phy-sician was out of town I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Rem-edy, which relieved her immediately. I will not be without it in the future." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dea-ers BENSON, SMITH & Co., agents for H. I.

HISTORY OF CAPT. COOK.

Death of the Navigator Most Remarkable in Ocean History.

HIS COMING VERIFIED A LEGEND.

Walter Besant Writes of Cook as the Greatest Navigator of Any Age. How His Death was Accomplished. Remarkable Voyages Made, Etc.

On Sunday, February 14, 1779, Captain James Cook, the celebrated English navigator, was killed by the natives of Owhyhee, as its name was formerly spelt by Europeans, or Hawaii, according to its more recent spelling, one of the Sandwich islands, and which gave its name to the Hawaiian kingdom.

COOK'S MONUMENT AT KEALAHOU BAY, HAWAII.

Mr. Walter Besant, in his interesting biography of Cook, is of opinion that the death of the navigator was the most remarkable in the whole history of ocean disaster. King, Samuel, Gilbert and others of Cook's companions gave their narratives of the event, but the true history of it was not known till William Ellis, agent of the London Missionary Society, visited the island in 1823 and conversed with natives who had seen the murder committed. There was, it seems, a legend among them that Lono, the swine god, had murdered his wife through jealousy, and then, having instituted athletic games in her memory, sailed for a foreign land, prophesying: "I will return in after-times on an island bearing coconuts, trees, swine and dogs."

When Cook arrived, not only on a ship with masts, but also with men in cocked hats, who were smoking tobacco, eating the red watermelon and taking things from their pockets, and therefore thought to be floating on islands with high trees, to have heads horned like the moon, to carry fires burning in their mouths, to eat the raw flesh of men, and to take out of their bodies what they required, these simple savages imagined them immortal beings, and that the ancient prediction was at length accomplished. Though Cook knew nothing of the legend, it seems incredible that when on the island, in the midst of the natives, he did not perceive that they were paying him divine honors in their prostrations, dances, sacrifices and kisses, but, at any rate, the priests caused the people to bring him offerings of pigs, fruit and cloth, which supplied his crews in the Revolution and Discovery, and he allowed this homage.

This collection became very speedily a grievous tax to the inhabitants. Moreover, Cook carried off for fuel the fence of the sacred place where he had received divine honors, and also some idols. On February 4, 1779, he sailed away; but in a week a gale, which caused the Revolution to spring her forehead, led him to return, and then occurred quarrels about women, water and one of the Discovery's cutters, which was stolen. Cook resolved to carry the King to his vessel till the boat was restored. His design was suspected, and the final result of it was that one of the chiefs stabbed him in the back between the shoulders with one of the iron daggers which Cook had given to them; another with a blow on the head from a club caused him to fall into the sea, and others kept him under the water a few minutes and then hauled him out upon the rocks and beat his head against them several times; so that doubtless he quickly expired. Several lives were lost on both sides.

Though the natives were not cannibals, they had done all in their power to make it impossible for Cook to escape himself, and, therefore, only his head and hands could be recovered, and these were buried in the ocean alongside his vessel. "Thus ended gloriously," writes Besant, "and as the result of an ill-advised attempt at high-handed justice, the life of the greatest navigator of any age," who had been born at Marton, in Yorkshire, on October 27, 1728, and after serving in merchant vessels and the royal navy till 1768 made those three remarkable voyages which terminated by his death on February 14, 1779.—Herald Moments

MEXICO A MILITARY POWER.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—There is much speculation as to impending changes in the army when General Menzies shall have returned from Europe and begun to introduce contemplated tactical reforms, and when the troops are provided with new arms. Military experts here are hoping for much from the introduction of Mauser rifles, which give good results. The old Remingtons will probably be sent to the National Guards in the Southern States, especially to Yucatan, Tabasco and Chiapas.

The English military expert now here studying the army says the morale of the troops is excellent, and when the men receive their new weapons and are organized on a German basis Mexico will have one of the strongest small armies in the world, capable of resisting much larger bodies of troops unaccustomed to the climate and unacquainted with the mountainous topography of the country.

THE USEFUL BANANA.

Its Leaves and Pulp Applied to Many Purposes.

In the West Indies the dried leaves and prepared portions of the stem are used as packing materials. Fresh leaves are used to shade young coffee or cacao seedlings in nursery beds, and to cover cacao beans during fermentation. The young unopened leaves are so smooth and soft that they are used as "dressing" for blisters. In India the dried stalk of the plantain leaf is used as a rough kind of twine, and the larger parts are made into small boxes for holding snuff, drugs, etc.

In the Malay Peninsula the ash of the leaf and leaf-stalk is used instead of soap or fuller's earth in washing clothes, and a solution of the ash is often used as a salt in cooking. In the Dutch Indies the skin of the plantain is used for blackening shoes. The juice which flows from all cut parts of the banana is rich in tannin, and of so black a nature that it may be used as an indelible marking ink. In Java the leaves of the "wax banana" are covered on the under side with a white powder, which yields a valuable kind of bananas. The most valuable wax, clear, hard and whitish, forming an important article of trade. The ashes of the leaves, stem and fruit rind are employed in Bengal in many dyeing processes. In Siam a cigarette wrapper is made from the leaves.

Fibre is got from the stems of many is the "Manila hemp" of commerce, which holds the chief place for making white ropes and cordage. Old ropes made of it form an excellent paper-making material, much used in the United States for stout packing papers. The Manila hemp industry is a large one. About 50,000 tons of fibre, valued at $3,000,000, are annually exported from the Philippine Islands. The Manila hemp plant is grown exclusively in the southeastern part of the Philippines, and all attempts to grow it elsewhere have failed. Many articles are made from Manila hemp—mats, cords, hats, lace handkerchiefs of the finest texture, plaited work and various qualities of paper. At Woblen, in Switzerland, an industry has been started for making lace and materials for ladies' hats from it. By a simple process it is made into straw exactly resembling the finest wheat straw for plaiting.

MONGOOSE IN HAWAII.

They Have Proven a Great Pest Here—Destroys Game.

Some five or six years ago the mongoose was imported into the islands for the purpose of exterminating rats in the cane fields. Various methods were adopted to rid the fields of the vermin, but all signally failed until the little animals were brought from Jamaica. They are repeating in Hawaii what was done by them in the island of Jamaica. After destroying rats in the cane fields the mongoose have attacked birds and fowls, materially decreasing their number by eating eggs and the young. As a consequence there are but few quail and turkey on the islands. Especially is this noticeable on Hawaii, in the vicinity of the volcano, where previous to the introduction of the mongoose species of this game were plentiful. The country in that locality is simply alive with the pests, for they have proven to be that. They attack as well young fowl and sucking pigs, and have been known to attempt to carry off grown animals, after first causing their death by strangulation. As the mongoose finds the rats, toads and crabs disappearing it attacks sitting fowls and carries off their eggs, and kills young pigs, kids, lambs, calves, pups, kittens, poultry and game birds, destroys fruits and vegetables, and is suspected of sucking sugar cane, eats meat and salt provisions, and catches fish.

YOUNG'S BOOK ON HAWAII

Nothing in the Work Offensive to Cleveland Administration.

SECRETARY HERBERT LIKES IT.

No Disposition to Persecute the Lieutenant—Unnecessary Excitement Aroused Over Alleged Suppression of the Publication—The Author.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A great deal of unnecessary excitement has been aroused over the alleged suppression of the book on Hawaii, written by Lieutenant Lucien Young of the navy. As a matter of fact, there is no telling just what Secretary Herbert has done, as he refuses to say a word about it. But the friends of Lieutenant Young who have seen the manuscript and pictures as prepared for publication say positively that the sensation-mongers are making a mountain out of a molehill. There is nothing in the book which could be construed as offensive, or which was intended so to be. The Lieutenant's relations with the Administration are not, and have not been, strained. The submission of the manuscript to the Secretary of the Navy was a voluntary act on his part, and the general supposition is that had he not once made himself unduly conspicuous in connection with the Hawaiian affair there would not have been raised the slightest objection to publishing his book now or at any time. Under the circumstances it was deemed in questionable taste for him to bring himself into public notice in relation to Hawaii, as it would simply cause a revamping of subjects which would be better for him to let slumber. The Secretary likes Young, who has the Southern impulsiveness of nature which sometimes causes the heart to run away with the head; and if there were any place where a brave man could make a record by taking his life in his hand and tempting fate against great odds, the Lieutenant would be given the chance to make himself famous.

It is pretty well understood that Mr. Herbert is interested in Young's book also, which he regards as most entertainingly written. There has certainly been no disposition on the part of the Secretary, or of any one else connected with the Administration, to persecute the Lieutenant. On the contrary, the only restraint, even moral, which appears to have been applied, narrows down to this: that Young voluntarily submitted his book to his chief with the understanding that, after what had already happened, it would be the part of discretion as well as courtesy to receive the Secretary's approval before putting his work forth, and that the Secretary has not yet given the desired assurance. The hubbub which has been raised over the matter is not likely to move Mr. Herbert to more accommodating frame of mind. His desire that Young's Fourth of July performance at Honolulu, and his subsequent escape from discipline on account of his record for personal gallantry, should be given a chance to blow over before the Lieutenant should be projected against a Hawaiian background again, would have come nearer fulfillment if a little longer interval had been permitted to elapse between the two public appearances.

NO LONGER IN EXISTENCE.

Dissolution of the Famous Chinese Six Companies of California.

The latest talk in Chinatown at the present time is concerning the split in the powerful "Six Companies," which, until a few days ago, had for its membership every Chinaman in the United States who thinks anything of his native country. Now four of the companies which were in the organization have stepped down and out, and hereafter there will be two organizations. Chinatown in this city has been billed with copies of a proclamation announcing the secession of four of the companies from the Six Companies. The proclamation appeals to all adherents of the seceders to stand together and boycott the other companies. The local Chinamen are said to be divided. Some will stand by the old organization and others will unite with the new.

The story comes from San Francisco that the disruption is due to a recent murder in the Chinese quarter of that city. Chinaman Tong Wei was murdered and the police arrested Moc Tai for the crime. The prisoner, it is alleged, was not the murderer. The Chinese merchants got together and members of the company to which Moc Tai belonged said he was innocent, and urged that the witnesses to this fact be sent to the trial. For some reason the merchants did not take any steps to save Moc Tai. Things became so interesting that the Ming Yung, Shue Hing, Hop Wah and Kong Chow companies withdrew from the Six Companies and organized what is now known as the See Yip Company. The See Yip Company will spend money and time and bring much powerful pressure to bear in the hope of freeing out the remaining two companies.

The Six Companies is likely to remain in power for a long time and to have a great following. When the floods occurred in China last year the Six Companies responded nobly to the appeals for assistance. In return the Emperor of China sent to the Six Companies a sign which bore with it a wish tantamount to a command that the organization should last 10,000 years. Many of the coolies fear that if they attempt to break up the Six Companies some great evil will befall them. The sign hangs in the quarters of the Six Companies. No one will remove it for fear that he will be stricken while doing it. The new organization hopes to get possession of the old quarters, and its members will then announce that they are the Six Companies.—Seattle (Wash.) Times.

THE DECEMBER "PARADISE."

Current Number Ends Eighth Volume of the Magazine.

The current number of The Paradise of the Pacific ends the eighth volume. It is a good number. The literary features are. A story on West Maui, by Charles Ewart; a sketch of the life of William C. Wilder, with an excellent portrait of that gentleman; a descriptive article on the volcano, by Leigh Irvine, the well known newspaper writer, and the conclusion of Thomas G. Thrum's "Commercial Development in Hawaii." The half-tone pictures show up sharp and clear, and the type matter is near perfection. Views of Kilauea accompany Mr. Irvine's article on the volcano. The other pictures illustrate Japanese quarters on a plantation, and the asylum for insane in Honolulu. Copies can be had at the newsdealers.

Victim of Consumption.

Harry Scrimger, brother of Chas. Scrimger, chief engineer at Ewa plantation, was buried in Nuuanu cemetery Tuesday at 4 p. m. Mr. Scrimger came here about eight months ago for the benefit of his health. He was a thorough Christian and had won the love and sympathy of all who knew him. Rev. H. W. Peck conducted the funeral service. Consumption was the cause of death.

LABORERS FOR THE PLANTERS

HAVING JUST RETURNED FROM Japan, where I have been in the interests of the labor supply for our plantations, I am prepared to furnish any number of laborers under the only practicable plan yet put forth.

MY PLAN as set forth in the prospectus of Ogura & Co., requires the planters to pay the passage money of the laborer to this place, and other expenses after arrival. $25 passage money for each male and $20 for each female.

After investigation of the subject, I am satisfied that it is the only plan by which laborers can be recruited for this place and be reasonably sure of obtaining them.

I most respectfully request that your orders be placed with me as soon as possible in order to secure the approval of the authorities here and to enable me to have the laborers recruited quickly.

Apropos of the Art League.

Mrs. Blake, who has studied pictures and read.
Miss Fedora Pallet, her niece, who studied abroad and paints.
Mrs. Stanton, a caller, who is rather utilitarian.
Mrs. Pettie, a caller, who wishes to buy a picture.
Miss Minor, a caller, who is eager to learn.

Place:—Mrs. Blake's lanai.
Time:—Afternoon tea, Friday, November 22.

Mrs. Blake—And none of you saw the pictures on the opening night? Why I thought Fedora and myself the only derelicts.

Mrs. Stanton—Well what is the use of going? I have my time filled already with church and social duties. Why should I dawdle two hours in an art gallery when I know not the first thing about Art? I really should like to know why you are going—if you are.

Miss Pallet—Why, to see what the lion has done, of course.

Miss Minor—I am going chiefly to see Irma's picture. I have scarcely seen her for the past month—she has been so busy.

Mrs. Pettie—I'm going because there is a horrid spot on the paper in our parlor, and I want to buy a picture that will fit and harmonize.

The Others—Fit and harmonize! O, you Philistine!

Mrs. Pettie—I know it. But I might as well buy my picture there as anywhere. Encourage home talent, I say. (She sips tea calmly.)

Mrs. Stanton—Are you exhibiting, Miss Pallet?

Miss Pallet—No, I am a new-comer. Besides, I am diffident. But I shall go to get the calibre of your artists.

Mrs. Blake—For my part, I go to get what I can from the pictures. I am painfully ignorant—
(Cries of Oh, Mrs. Blake!)

—but I learn something in every exhibition, and I am a member of the League.

Miss Minor—O Mrs. Blake, won't you tell us how you learn something? I suppose the Art League is not merely to exact a semi-annual creation for those who can express themselves in paint and plaster. I suppose it vaguely aspires to spread the knowledge of Art in this community. We are ignorant enough of it, I am sure.

Why couldn't some of the artists have had for their contribution the creation of an intelligent public? They might have worked up a series of popular articles, telling us the right way to see pictures.

Miss Pallet—One reason is because there is no short cut. It is the study of pictures themselves that brings this knowledge of them.

Miss Minor—But how do you study a picture? Can we not know any marks of difference between good and bad painting? I have stood dumbly before pictures and longed inexpressibly to know why some had been awarded prizes and others not.

Mrs. Blake—I have followed some simple rules for myself, Miss Minor, and with Miss Fedora's assistance I will tell you what I have done.

All Yes, Mrs. Blake. Do, do. Will you be so kind?

Mrs. Blake—First, I look at the hand-work—coloring, drawing, painting. If they are bad, the picture will be worthless. As we enter a gallery, we are carressed by color. The eye naturally seeks the bright colors first, but I distrust them. So few artists have been "colorists." Young artists, I find, revel in warmth. Older ones are wiser and know that the low tones can be more successfully blended.

Miss Pallet—Excuse me, Aunt Mary, I can add Herr Fernau's testimony to that. He advised me to paint an unman splendor with autumn skies bedouled.

Mrs. Blake—I wish, Fedora, that you would talk for me.

Miss Pallet—No, I can only interrupt.

Mrs. Blake—To proceed, then, I have found that reserve in color often means gain in perspective, atmosphere and feeling.

Mrs. Stanton—But would you condemn all high coloring? Surely there are blue sky, red leaves, yellow trees and green grass often under a blazing sun. Why not paint them?

Mrs. Blake—Yes, if we can. Artists succeed more easily in other lines. A quiet thing more often, to my mind, shows the sentiment it is meant to show. Atmosphere makes such havoc with colors, unless we understand atmospheric effects. Remember that objects, trees for instance, blue and lose tone as they recede, the two fold atmospheric effect, and the grayish blue is truer to nature than the green tree in miniature.

Miss Pallet—The Blottelique style is Runkin's name for it.

Mrs. Pettie—Nevertheless, some of the impressionist things are just lovely for a lavender and white room.

Miss Minor—(Aside) I should think so! And for any room.

Mrs. Blake—Besides atmospheric effects, we must consider tone. Colors have different values, or tones. A green tree here, and one a half mile distant—are they the same? In bright sunlight and under a cloud? An algebra and a coconut? Do you see what I mean by values? I look to see if the different values are maintained.

Then textures. Are they flesh, wood, stone, cloth, air or water? Or does the imagination dub a palace that is white, marble, whether it looks snow or stucco? And we call a pink and white oval a human face—by imagination.

Miss Minor—But the faces are so patchy, the lights so exaggerated! The reds so dark, the pinks and yellows so bright, the tip of the nose is always polished.

Mrs. Blake—Then go away as far as possible and look. The proverb is, "The smell of paint is unhealthy."

Miss Pallet—Herr Fernau used to put his face close to a picture as we stood at the end of the room and compared the real with the painted face. Find some one to do that for you, Miss Minor, and you will be surprised at the deep colors that are in any face, and the high lights.

Mrs. Blake—Then I ask myself another question: Does the light come from only one direction? Does one atmosphere envelop the whole picture?

But color is not all. I see you look happier, Miss Minor. Are we coming nearer to the answer to your question? So many of us are confident that we can see—that at least we can judge of drawing.

Miss Pallet—(From the depths of her chair). Alas! The natural eye is at enmity with art. It needs training.

Miss Minor—Why can't we judge drawing?

Mrs. Blake—Won't you tell us, Fedora?

Miss Pallet—You do not draw. You do not see. You do not know exactly. But you have general impressions. And you have some sense of proportions. With that look, observe, study closely, as Fernau says.

But sometimes artists prefer to suggest, distort, apparently; all to give an appearance of motion, of life, and this is difficult. Old Michael Angelo's figures always seem to be writhing or stretching, moving or about to move.

Miss Minor—I believe I have felt that myself, only I called them "different."

Mrs. Blake—Individuality it is. When it carries us away in spite of rules, it is genius.

But shall we discuss this further? I see that Mrs. Stanton and Mrs. Pettie are thinking of other calls.

Mrs. Stanton—I must go now, but I am sorry to leave. I have been following you, and I am determined to be a trifle more intelligent hereafter in my Art dissipation.

Mrs. Pettie—Very interesting, I am sure. I've been charmed, but I must go.

[Both ladies make their bows and depart in a shower of Good Afternoons. The three remaining draw their chairs nearer.]

Miss Minor. O, Mrs. Blake, I really ought to run in and see Irma, but can't you tell me just a little more? About the different kinds of pictures, for instance?

Mrs. Blake—Once I memorized a running criticism, so to speak. Shall I recite it like a school boy? I have forgotten part of it, and the author, but it runs somewhat like this: In landscapes look for color, tone, atmosphere, light and shade; feeling and grandeur sometimes. In figure compositions notice the pictorial in drawing, grouping, gradation of light, color and textures, besides dramatic effect, passion, character.

Miss Pallet—Brava, Aunt Mary! Miss Minor has her cue at last. We shall be looking for art criticisms.

Mrs. Blake—As to portraits, I look to see if the face is well drawn, if the flesh has blood and muscle.

Is it built over bones, or is it oiled paper covering putty? Then I look for likeness that expresses the character, which is the test of the portrait, never the finish of the picture.

Miss Minor—You know that Van Dyck Brown painted Grandmother Minor's portrait, and when the family criticized the likeness, he wondered if the great portraits of the world had been thought satisfactory by the families of the sitters! Now, who should see the likeness, he or we? He is a good artist, undoubtedly. Grandma calls it one of her English ancestors!

I see the Vantines coming, and I must run. But Mrs. Blake, may I go with you and Miss Pallet when you visit the Art League? Will you telephone when? Good afternoon. [Exit hurriedly.]

Mrs. Blake to Miss Pallet as they stand awaiting the Vantines—My dear, why did you allow me to harangue when you know so much better than I? I fear she did not learn much after all.

Miss Pallet—It was not technical, Aunt Mary, and any words of mine would have been of little use to that child. How enthusiastic she is! How she would enjoy studying pictures with Haus Fernau. I think I will suggest to him that he write a book for just such ardent learners as Miss Minor.

SYRIL.

A Waste of Powder.

An English gentleman was pigeon shooting in his grounds the other day with an Irish friend. He shot a pigeon very high up, and it came down with a plump at their feet.

"Faith, that was a waste of powder and shot," said his Irish friend.

"Why?"

"Because, sure, the fall alone would have killed the poor beast without any of the shooting!"—London Answers.

SUGARED HAM.

As Prepared by the Cuban Daughters of Liberty.

Sugared ham is presumably a Cuban delicacy, as it was sold at a recent fair held by the Society of the Cuban Daughters of Liberty for the benefit of the wounded Cuban soldiers. Three days are necessary to its preparation. A plain boiling on the first day, on the second an immersion in cider, in which it is boiled again, and on the third a coating of sugar icing put on. The formula reads temptingly, and is worth trying—ham, as every housekeeper knows, offering special inducements of toothsome results, in combination with various flavors—New York Times.

A Holiday Pointer.

Turkeys will not fatten if confined in close coops, as they pine if deprived of liberty, but if several turkeys are confined together in a small yard for ten days they can be made quite fat in that length of time. Feed three times a day as much as they will eat, giving corn meal, ground oats, middlings and ground meal equal parts by weight, scalded, morning and noon, and wheat and corn at night. Keep a head of cabbage in the yard, also sharp gravel, ground charcoal and fresh water. A few turkeys can be fed with chickens, if preferred. It is not necessary to force them to eat.—Exchange.

They Can't Escape.

Spanish Citizen—"Ah, back I see!"

Spanish Military Officer—"Yes; just ran back to look up a few thousand reinforcements."

"So? How are things in Cuba?"

"Oh, we've got the rascals. They can't escape from the island!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MR. DUANE, OF AUCKLAND.

We shall print the whole of Mr. Isaac Duane's letter, only regretting that it is not longer. He might have mentioned that June, the month which he wrote, is the coldest month in the year in his country, and January the hottest. He might also have reminded us that New Zealand is almost as large as Great Britain, with a much more desirable climate. He might further have said that it is a wholesome place to live in, as it contains few physical sources of disease, and possesses no insect so noxious as the English wasp. Yet on reading his letter we shall find that those attractive islands in the far Southern Sea are not free from an enemy we are called upon to fight here in England, as elsewhere throughout the world.

"I have much pleasure in writing you," says Mr. Duane, "as to me it is a privilege as well as a duty to describe an experience in which I am confident you will be interested."

"Ever since I was a boy I have not only suffered from indigestion in its worst form, but I have been a martyr to it. Such an ailment in life as I have achieved has been in the face of the constant opposition set up by this miserable complaint. All its symptoms are familiar to me as the smoke of London is to a dweller in that rather grim old city. The bad taste in the mouth, the fitful appetite, the distress in the chest and back, the dull headache, the sense of weariness and fatigue, the depression of spirits, the want of ambition to take hold of any labour, the weakness resulting from lack of sufficient nourishment, do—all these were part and parcel of my life from my youth to a time I am going to speak of in a moment."

"I can only account for it by assuming that I must have inherited a tendency to this disease. At all events it cast a gloom over my whole history up to the date of my recent happy deliverance. The record of the illness, writhed night and day, could make almost a volume by itself. Times beyond counting I have arisen from my bed in the morning, glad the night was gone, and yet in no frame of mind to welcome the day. To the chronic dyspeptic rest does not bring strength as it does to others."

"You will hardly need to be told that I made every effort to obtain a cure, and medicine after medicine—now something I thought of myself and then something advertised in the newspapers. And as to doctors (against whom I desire to say not a word), I tried one after another, and faithfully used the prescriptions they gave me; but nothing more than a temporary relief came of it."

About four years ago a friend spoke to me of the great reputation of Mother Seigel's Syrup in curing all ailments of the digestion, and urged me to make a trial of it. I might as well say frankly that I had little faith in it, but it would do me no harm, and I was in such pain that I was in a mood to try anything that offered the remotest chance of a cure. So I bought a bottle, and the very first dose made me feel better. This was so cheering and hopeful that I continued taking the Syrup, and to my surprise I grew better and better, and I was enabled to do my work as usual. All the symptoms which made life a burden for so many years are now gone, and I am a different man. If ever, from any cause, I have a temporary recurrence of indigestion, a few doses of Mother Seigel's Syrup produces immediate relief, and leaves me in good health. You have my full consent to publish this letter. I am well known in Auckland and always glad to tell anyone by word of mouth what a wonderful cure your remedy worked in my case. [Signed] Isaac Duane, coachbuilder, Karangahape Road, Auckland, New Zealand, June 25th, 1895."

Our home readers will perceive that not in England alone but in far distant quarters of the globe this celebrated medicine is known, and is successful where others do not avail. It is the most common place of truths that its praises are sounded wherever civilization extends, and almost in every written language the name of Mother Seigel's Syrup finds an acknowledged place.

EX-CONGRESSMAN HOLMAN, in a recent interview, stated that the mistakes of the present American Administration began with the Hawaiian affair. He speaks from a Democratic standpoint, and it is a natural supposition that in rectifying their mistakes his party will begin at the beginning. Recent developments among Administration politicians are decidedly in favor of such a program, and the result may depend upon the success of the efforts of their opponents in blocking the way of escape from their present dilemma.

THE editor of the Hawaiian calls upon the newspapers of the country to follow a more exacting system of questioning among themselves, and then goes to work and publishes a vague statement about "the editor of a prominent paper" who says he can go only so far in his comments without feeling the pull of the string that shuts his mouth. Now the all-pious advocate of the close questioning principle will confer a favor on the community by giving evidence of the truth of his statement: of going further, naming the puppet and the people on the other end of the string. Let some degree of practice follow the questioning principle.

THE citizens of Hilo, in making plans for what may some day be a public park along the water front, are guarding against a serious mistake that has been made in laying out the public grounds of the city. The people of Honolulu have stood quietly looking on while nearly every foot of the land along the beach at Waikiki has been taken up by private parties. Our Kapiolani Park, to be complete, should have a frontage on the beach accessible to the poorer classes in the city. We have made the mistake duplicated in many cities of the States of looking ahead after it is too late, and realizing what blessings might have been realized had the matter been under serious consideration earlier in our history.

IN the agitation for an increase in the revenue of the United States Government, it is highly probable that sugar will occupy a prominent place during the present session of Congress. The Philadelphia Record suggests that if the Republicans sincerely desire to increase the revenue from customs without disturbing business by tariff legislation, they will only have to change the 40 per cent. ad valorem duty on raw sugar to a specific duty of one cent per pound. This scheme, it is claimed, would take the Sugar Trust permanently out of the Washington lobby. If the past history of Congress may be taken as a criterion, it will take more than a specific duty to send the Sugar Trust or any other similar combination out of the Washington lobby.

THE editor of the Friend, in paying his respects to the Christian church, expresses the hope that the followers of the faith may soon outgrow their extremely narrow sectarianism. It is not our place to comment on the religious principles of any sect or church organization within this country; it is not for the people of this world to judge as to who is narrow-minded and bigot in mapping out church creeds. Who is to say that this one is right and the other wrong so long as all are combined in an effort to teach the foundation principles of the Bible and thereby assist their fellow men to live honest, noble lives? Let us live and let live and not sit idly by and let a fellow laborer be caused to happen to read certain Biblical passages in a manner somewhat different from that which obtained among our forefathers.

THIS A SMALL MINORITY.

IN the second number of the Hilo Tribune, received by the last inter-island mail, A. B. Loebenstein, an ardent annexationist of Hilo, points out the fallacy of the underhanded opposition to annexation which he believes the Tribune is carrying out. We cannot believe with him that the time has come when this country must decide between monarchy and annexation. We cannot believe that this country, with its present population, is to retrace the advance steps that it has taken in its form of government, but we most heartily agree with the sentiment that "this country must be either Asiatic or European in its civilization," and the final result is in the hands of the white residents and native population of today. He points out that whatever cry there may be against annexation does not come from the majority of those whose financial welfare depends upon the "larger interests" of the country. By virtue of expressions to which the Tribune has given voice thus early in its history, we must admit that there are those in this country who are desirous of gaining all the benefits resulting from reciprocity with the United States without turning a hand to reciprocate or making a move to bring our labor systems into line with the American idea. Fortunately however this class represents a small minority and not the backbone of the sugar industry.

AS Mr. Loebenstein says, until it can be demonstrated that those who espoused the cause of annexation in 1893, and the annexation rolls are still extant for that purpose, have proved recreant to that cause, when it can be said that the men who have been placed high in power, men like Dole, Hatch, Smith, King, Damon, Thurston and Castle to carry out the wishes of those who have placed them there, have abandoned their mission, when it can be shown that those who sat in the legislature of 1895, who were the true representatives of the nation's sense, and whose deliberations were in every respect an answering appeal to the wants of the people, and whose vote in that legislature was unanimous for annexation: when it can be shown that that unanimous vote was merely a lie, and lastly when it can be proven that there has been a change in the hearts of the people, a renunciation and abandonment of that great cause, then and not till then will there be justification in formulating some new scheme of government.

NO one is so thoughtless as to believe that annexation will put an end to all the sorrows of life in the Hawaiian Islands. It will bring new problems, serious problems; but the solid business men of the country are ready to face those problems. The advocates of annexation will not be hoodwinked by specious arguments. As a prominent member of Brewer & Co. said recently, "We must have annexation at all costs."

WHITE MEN IN THE TROPICS.

AN interesting discussion on the feasibility of white men colonizing the tropics is given in a recent number of the New Review by Frederick Boyle. This writer offers many strong arguments in favor of the scheme and goes so far as to state that it is by peopling the tropics with the white races that the millennium is to be brought about. He deprecates the scheme of semi-colonization which exists in Ceylon and many other countries, where the whites go out to employ colored labor. In this condition the colored race is worked for what money there is in them and the result is a degradation of both the employer and the employed. He would have his tropical colony made up of men who wish to make a home by their own labor, who cultivate and develop their own plot of land. He believes with Mr. Bates the author of "The Naturalist on the Amazon," that man the animal like all other living things attains his highest development in the tropics. His proposed colony he would place in a wooded upland sparsely peopled. First of all there should be strict discipline and idleness should be classed as a misdemeanor, because, if left unchecked it would lead to vagrancy and a general degeneration of the imported population.

AS an example of the success of the scheme, he points to the many whites who have gone into the South American countries, where it has been proven that a man will keep his health and spirits when he is tilling his own land, under conditions which would prostrate him if he were toiling for another. In this last point Mr. Boyle strikes at the essential element of success of colonizing either in the tropics or the temperate zone. Given a home and a plot of land, the average white man will thrive under almost any climatic conditions. Further than this, the small homesteader becomes a factor in the development of the country whose place cannot be filled by a population of hirelings. The latter act more in the capacity of a leech: they are satisfied so long as they reap a fair return for their labor, and are ready when the source of wealth is exhausted to pull up stakes and cast about for some other favorable opportunity. The white man who goes into the tropics must also be prepared to make as hard a fight for prosperity as he does in the country where he has to dig rocks, and do his planting and harvesting during five months in the year.

COUNTESS ANNA KAPRISTE says that as compared with European women, the Russian women work more and weep less, love and hate with greater intensity, they exalt their mission of motherhood more highly, and on the bearing and rearing of their children they lavish all their energies of mind and body. To have sons as strong as lions' whelps and daughters as flawless as doves is given as the highest ambition of the Russian woman. This is certainly a worthy ambition, but it has the appearance of crediting the Russian woman with a possible neglect of the mental faculties of herself and her children. Though Russian sons may be as strong as lions' whelps and the daughters as flawless as doves, the general social and political conditions are evidence that there is a good deal that is still lacking in the home life of the Russian woman.

RUSSIA is attracting considerable attention in the financial world just at present by virtue of the order recently issued for coining 100,000,000 roubles in gold and 25,000,000 roubles in silver in addition to the subsidiary coinage. This means, reducing the terms to American equivalents, an addition of about $77,000,000 to the gold coinage and of something over $9,000,000 to the silver coinage. The amount of gold to be coined is more than ten times that coined during the last four years, while the amount of silver to be coined falls but little short of that minted during the same period. The coinage project is attributed by some to the policy of preparing for the redemption of the paper money, but it is not unlikely that the increase in the silver coinage may be intended to meet the extension of Russian trade among the silver-using countries of the Far East.

AN evening paper makes an attempt at explaining the action of the Advisory Council in matters of present interest. If the action was right it needs no explanation and our contemporary is taking upon itself a task uncalled for and entirely unnecessary. If it is necessary to expand on the whys and wherefores of the action of any legislative body the only true solution is to do away with executive sessions. Secrecy in legislative bodies is the most productive source of distrust.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION.

AT a meeting of the Proportional Representation League held in Saratoga, N. Y., William Dudley Faulke gave an exhaustive discussion of the various systems of electoral reforms inaugurated to insure the proper representation of all minority voters. The cumulative system which is the best known is characterized as having many advantages over the present method, but has defects which are decidedly against its being put in general use. Under the cumulative system each voter may divide their suffrages, so as to give any one of the three candidates three votes, or two for one and one for another, or one and a half votes to each of two candidates. This method aims at proportional representation but does not secure it as is the case when the votes are centered on a popular man, thereby electing the two remaining candidates by a minority vote. The minority secures a representation but the representation is by no means proportional.

AS is the case in many of the reforms inaugurated in the republican form of government it is necessary to turn to Switzerland to obtain a system that reaches the best degree of perfection. The competitive free list system has been adopted in four of the Swiss cantons and has proved the best of the plans thus far evolved. Each voter has as many votes as there are candidates, and he may distribute them as he pleases, giving one to each candidate. The parties to which these candidates belong are designated by title in the ballot papers. "Should the voter not use the entire number of votes to which he is entitled, his votes are counted for the party which he designates. Votes cast count individually for the candidates as well as for the parties. The sum of all the votes cast is divided by the number of members to be elected to give the quota of representation to each. Each party is entitled to as many members as it has quotas, and the candidates receiving the highest number of votes in each party ticket are the ones elected. After all the candidates receiving quotas are elected, those receiving the largest fractions of quotas fill the remaining places."

THIS system can be carried out with as much ease as the Australian ballot and has proven imminently successful. THE success of the honest government people of Baltimore at the last election is to be followed by a general overhauling of the city offices and the prosecution of every ward boss and election officer who played a part in the attempted political corruption. It is possible that Baltimore may, like its sister cities, experience a return of the corrupt politicians to power, but their work is undoubtedly doomed to final destruction. The reform leagues throughout the American municipalities are doing a grand work in waking up the stay-at-home voter and bringing him into the line of active workers. The leagues will have their temporary set-backs but there is no discounting the fact that the honest voters of the city and country have reached the point where their power will no longer be allowed to remain dormant.

THE principal source of grief among the citizens of Waimea, Kauai, favoring a liquor license seems to be that the no-license people got ahead of them in mustering their forces. The latter made an unexpected move and gained the day. From a purely political standpoint it would seem that the defeated party should quietly take their medicine and prepare for the unexpected when the matter comes up again.

TAKAZIMA BROTHERS.

A Kindly Reception to the Japanese Acrobats.

MR. Evans' Japanese gave an excellent performance at the new structure, corner Richards and Merchant streets, last night. The theatre was packed with people and "standing room only" was the cry at the entrance by the time the performance had commenced. Each feature was good and loudly applauded. Chio Kichi's rope balancing, bicycle riding and ball rolling were superb.

The trapeze acts were good, the screen balancing and tree balancing first-class, and every one left the house well pleased. The same program will be rendered this evening and tomorrow. Changes will be made from time to time, due notice being given of the same.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and functions, it is important that the blood be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs bring on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme. HOBSON DRUG CO., wholesale agents.

THE AERMOTOR AND Steel Tower.

IN as much as most of our remarks have been confined to the pumping Aermotor we wish to call your attention this week to the geared motor for barns. Undoubtedly sometime in the past you have concluded to equip your mill with shafting for grinding of corn and feed for your stock, and perhaps attach a grind stone and buzz saw, and sent away for a catalogue for estimated cost and the location of your building for horizontal and vertical shafting, but finally came to the conclusion that the cost and difficulties of constructing were too great to warrant the expenditure. Now here is where the Aermotor does away with all those great obstacles and petty annoyances. In our plan you have only to secure the vertical 8x8 mast in position, put the Aermotor on one end and the grinder on the other. The mast then holds it all. You can belt to different machines and drive your pump and feed grinder at one time. The feed grinder is always in position. You have only to turn a hand screw to adjust the lower grinding ring sufficiently close and it is already for use, or in an instant you can put on a belt to run any other machine. The saving of power effected by having all bearings rigidly connected in one casting and therefore in proper place, is no less important than the matter of convenience allowed too. The Aermotor runs in half the wind required by other mills, and regulates in a strong wind as well as in a mild wind. It handles the pump the smoothest of any mill made. An eight inch stroke Aermotor will throw more water with less wind than any of the old style mills. If you are in need of a mill buy an Aermotor and your neighbors will congratulate you on your foresight.

WELL WORTH SEEING.

Initial Performance of Wirth's Australian Circus.

An Interesting and Attractive Program of Daring Feats of Horsemanship and Trapeze Performances

All the available space in the big tent erected at Fort and Beretania streets was occupied last night, and many people were compelled to remain standing. The initial performance of Wirth's Australian Circus was the attraction and the show people could not expect any better reception for an opening than the one they had.

The performance was a very attractive one and the program included many feats that were loudly encoored by the large audience. The entertainment opened with an entree of the lady and gentlemen riders in an exhibition of fancy riding and feats of horsemanship. Some clever acts on the flying trapeze followed, and an exhibition of club swinging by two pretty little girls in handsome dresses brought down the house.

The pony "Nellie" was put through some tricks, that showed almost human instinct, by her trainer, P. H. Montgomery. W. Burns and a Japanese midget showed off to fine advantage in a ladder balancing performance. Lahl Sing proved himself a star in the riding line, jumping on and off his horse while going at full speed, with perfect ease. Muriel Wirth, a lovely little tot of eight years, performed on the slack wire in a manner that would do credit to an old-time slack-wire artist. Miss Nellie Lyndhurst and Miss Ida Vernon showed themselves to be expert bareback riders and appeared perfectly at home standing on the backs of flying steeds.

Burns and Alberto on the flying trapeze, and Kachaiko, a youthful Japanese bareback rider, received several rounds of applause for their daring feats. The clowns were very amusing, and "The Alabama Coon," as sung by little Muriel Wirth, Kate Montgomery and Elsie St. Leon, served as a pleasing interlude between the performances of older members of the troupe.

The circus is certainly a refined and modest entertainment and will without doubt attract full houses during their stay in Honolulu. The managers have arranged matters so that there will be no more crowding in the reserved seat section of the tent. The seats will be numbered hereafter and purchasers can make their selections a week ahead if desirable. A family matinee will be given tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for the ladies and children.

HEALTH BOARD MEETS

Military Guards Ordered Removed from Nuuanu Stream.

TO REMOVE FISH RESTRICTIONS.

Bathing in the Harbor is Now Allowed Chinese Taro Raisers Want to Plant Again No Change in Regulations Regarding Nuuanu Stream—Molokai

There was just a quorum present at the regular weekly meeting of the Board of Health Wednesday. President Waterhouse occupied the chair, other members of the Board being Doctors Wood and Emerson, members Lansing, Kellipio and Health Agent Reynolds.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Dr. Monsarrat's report of slaughtered cattle during the past week was read and passed.

Routine matters at the settlement were reported in letters from Agent Meyers. Mr. Meyers suggested that two additional dormitories be added to the Baldwin Home. This was ordered.

A communication from Attorney A. G. M. Robertson, acting for several taro planters, was read. The Chinamen wanted permission to go ahead and plant patches near the Insane Asylum. The damage paid by the Government for the taro destroyed did not remunerate the planters; unless permission was granted to again plant the patches, a further claim against the Government would be made in their behalf. Action deferred.

Definite action regarding removing of restrictions on fish and fishing will be taken next week.

It was voted to withdraw the military guards from Nuuanu stream. No change was made in the regulations governing the stream.

No further danger being apparent, the tabu on bathing in the harbor was removed.

Agent Reynolds spoke of some persons bathing in Nuuanu stream. He had reported the matter to Marshal Brown, who had agreed to have the police and guards prevent the practice in the future.

President Waterhouse spoke of the recent trip to Molokai, a full report of which had appeared in the newspapers. He expressed thanks for the kind solicitation shown for their welfare. Various matters in connection with the settlement were discussed at some length. This finished regular business, and the Board went into executive session.

DISCIPLE OF LUKELA.
Her Method of Curing Physical and Matrimonial Ills.

Mr. Editor:—Having seen something of the doings of the Lukela, the most noble and princely prophet of Wailuku, Maui, I wish to tell the public something of one of his disciples who lives at Pukoo, Molokai. A few months ago a native man and woman were married, and immediately after they left the priest's house the woman took the steamer Mokolii for Honolulu and has not returned or written a letter to her new husband.

About a week ago a blind boy appeared on the husband's face. He went to Lukela's disciple to ask her advice, but she said that he must first give her half a gallon of whiskey in order to insure a speedy cure. The man, being poor, told her that he had no money; but she told him that he could not be cured unless the spirits were forthcoming, whereupon the man sold everything he had to procure the panacea. When the disciple had the whiskey safely stowed away, she told the suffering husband that the house was no good because his wife had gone away, and if he did not want to die soon he had better leave the house altogether, after which his face would get better. He left the house, and now he is wandering about the island in search of a divorce.

DISBELIEVER.

Japanese Cable Laying.

There seems to be little that the plucky Japanese cannot take hold of and handle successfully, but we confess our surprise at finding them ready to undertake cable laying. It is stated that they have bought 800 knots of submarine cable to connect Japan with Formosa, and are going to lay it themselves. The next thing they do will be to manufacture the cable itself and supply the whole Eastern world. When the time comes for connecting Asia with America by direct cable the alert and energetic Japanese may want to do some more cable work, and, judging from present indications, they are far more likely to be "in it" than Americans are. Somehow, our cable manufacturers, admirable as are their products, never get down to deep sea work. Electrical Engineer.

Musicians Coming.

The Hawaiian Band will be reinforced by two members when the next Canadian steamer arrives from the north. They will occupy positions of snare-drummer and clarinet player. Charles Wilson, one of the best drummers that ever played in the islands, will resign from the band at the end of the year.

WANT A LICENSE.

Waimea Citizens Dislike the Outcome of their Petitions.

Mr. Editor:—I feel it my duty to the citizens of Waimea, Kauai, to place before the public one instance of the power of a few men in meddling with personal rights. On the 16th of November there was held in the court house at Waimea a meeting for signing two petitions—one for and one against a liquor license. Signers for a license were made up of respectable citizens and taxpayers who preferred a legal license to illicit selling, which is not prevented, although the officers are making every effort to do so. Those signing against the license were from one firm, their direct employees, three other persons, and the minister of Waimea, making a total of 38 in favor and 51 opposed.

Among those in favor appear eighteen white men—citizens of the Republic; and of those opposed the names of three white men and a large number of their plantation laborers. Many of the latter were unable to write their names. The absolute rule of a few local men is getting distasteful to a large number of Waimea citizens, who wish to realize on the freedom of the Republic. I remain, a citizen of the Republic. CLARK.

DOG POISONING CASE.

Seaborn Luce Tried for Malicious Injury—Appeal Taken.

Judge Perry's decision in the case of W. S. Luce, the auctioneer, charged with malicious injury, was a surprise to both prosecution and defense Wednesday morning. Mr. Luce and J. Kalaukoa are both residents of Nuuanu valley, and for some time past the dogs of the latter have created sad havoc on Luce's premises.

The canines have pulled down setting hens from their boxes and made many a tempting repast off valuable fowl, which they killed on Luce's grounds. The latter notified Kalaukoa repeatedly to keep his dogs off the premises, but he failed to heed the notice.

Mr. Luce complained to Marshal Brown of the devastation the dogs had caused, and the Marshal told him to kill the animals if they continued to destroy his property. Plates filled with poisoned meat were placed in the yard every night, and two of Kalaukoa's dogs helped themselves to a feed of it. The result was that both canines are now occupying graves in Nuuanu valley. A dog belonging to J. T. Waterhouse also met his death by eating away from home. Mr. Waterhouse made no complaint. Kalaukoa, however, had Mr. Luce arrested for malicious injury. Judge Antone Perry found him guilty and ordered a fine of $10 and costs. An appeal was taken to the higher court.

Explosion at Kailua.

One of the passengers by the Hall reported an explosion at Kailua recently. According to the account a small mill was being erected at Kailua by a party from Honolulu. The boiler, one that had been in use here, exploded, injuring several workmen. This is all that could be learned about the accident. Captain Simerson and others connected with the Hall had heard nothing of the matter.

In 1892, Mr. A. L. Goldwater, who owns three retail drug stores in New York City, having learned of the great value of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for colds, croup and whooping cough, ordered a supply for his customers. It met with so much favor that he found it necessary to soon order more, and during the winter sold over two gross of the remedy. He says it gives the best satisfaction of any cough cure he has ever handled. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by all dealers. BENSON, SMITH & CO., Agents for H. I.

LEPERS' MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Annual Entertainment to be Held on December 14th.

Saturday evening, December 14th, has been fixed as the time for holding the annual entertainment for the lepers' Merry Christmas. It will take place in Kaumakapili church, commencing at 8 o'clock. Tickets are to be 50 cents, and they will be on sale today at all of the stationery stores. Wray Taylor has not quite completed his program, but among those who will take part are Miss Kate Field, Miss Alice Rice, the pianist; Miss Ingersoll, of Alameda, a violinist, who is on her way to the islands, Armstrong Smith's handbell ringers, the Pacific Lawn Tennis Glee Club. There will also be songs by the best local singers, and instrumental music.

With the assistance of the President of the Board of Health, who was at the settlement last week, it has been decided how the money from the entertainment shall be spent, as the people told him what they required most. The Hawaiian Star kindly donates the programs, and the Hawaiian Gazette Company the tickets, while the Bulletin and Independent will do their share towards making this annual entertainment a success. Wall, Nichols Company will loan a fine new Kingsbury piano.

OFF DAY FOR GODFREY.

His Claim for Damages Not Recognized by American Govt.

NO MENTION OF CITIZENSHIP.

Secretary Olney Says It is a Matter for the Hawaiian Courts to Settle—Judge Whiting Declines an Appeal Assumpsit Case in Favor Gazette Company.

Wednesday was an off day for Frank Godfrey. Minister Willis called at the Foreign Office in the morning and informed Minister Cooper that the United States had refused to take action on a claim of $50,000 damages made by Godfrey to the American Secretary of State, the same being an outcome of the recent tar and feathers occurrence.

Godfrey's communication for damages contained two complaints, one being that he was detained at the cholera hospital twenty-four hours longer than the period generally observed. The second stated that in September last he was assaulted by masked men and tarred and feathered by them. Affidavits substantiated the second charge.

The Hawaiian Government was informed by Minister Willis that the first charge made by Godfrey was not sent to Washington, having been dropped here. So far as the second charge is concerned, the American government made reply that it was a matter solely for the local courts to act upon, and that the complaint would not be given recognition at Washington. No mention was made of citizenship, but it is believed the American government is cognizant of the fact that Godfrey has subscribed to the oath of allegiance to the Republic and is a qualified voter under its laws.

Judge Whiting heard a case in the afternoon in which Godfrey was interested. It was an appeal assumpsit case of the Hawaiian Gazette Company for balance due on account, J. F. Clay of the Senate being a garnishee. Godfrey claimed that he was a beneficiary of the Government as described in the law of 1890, and consequently his wages could not be garnished. Judge Whiting believed differently and sustained the judgment of the District Court.

IN SAMOA.

Brief History of a Celebrated American Land Claim.

The following case was decided by Chief Justice Ide recently in Samoa:

The property in dispute consists of nearly 20,000 acres of land, some of it very valuable. It was originally the property of the Central Polynesian Land Company, but ultimately became the property of Sadie Clay, wife of Frederic Clay, who, in former years, was well known in San Francisco commercial circles. Early in 1878 Sadie Clay assigned her interest to Messrs. M. Wellman, James Neylon and I. K. C. Hobbs, in order that it might be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of debts owing by her husband, who joined in the deed to Wellman, Neylon, Hobbs, the San Francisco Cracker Company and some others, but the trusts of the deed have never been carried out, and the trustees latterly appeared to entertain the notion that the lands were their own property, to be disposed of as they saw fit. It seems that Sadie Clay before assigning the lands to Wellman, Neylon and Hobbs had conveyed them to her husband, who six years later parted with them to a New Zealander named Sherwood. The latter sold to various parties, and these persons shared her lands in opposition to Wellman, Neylon and Hobbs. The Supreme Court has now decided that Wellman, Neylon and Hobbs hold the lands, but only as trustees and the property must be disposed of in the manner intended by the trust deed, and that after the payments of such of Clay's debts as are mentioned in the deed any unappropriated balance is to be handed over to the persons who bought from Sherwood. The Chief Justice declares that the lands must be sold in Samoa under his own direction, and that proper evidence must be furnished regarding the debts against Clay as the amounts are omitted from the deed. The claims originally were about 650,000 acres of land, but as the bulk of the title were found so defective that the total area left is as already stated—about 20,000 acres. Some of the land is situated close to Apia and is of considerable value. The United States Government purchased a portion of the lands situated at Pago Pago harbor several years ago.—Exchange.

Banana Plants and Cyclones.

The natives of Mangaia are mercifully forewarned of approaching cyclones by seeing the strange twists and contortions of the stem of the indigenous banana, and the extraordinary crinkled appearance of the inner leaves of the kape (Alcacia Indica) some weeks previous to the event. The leaf and stem of the indigenous banana are marvelously sensitive to atmospheric changes. The native proverb referring to this natural barometer has been completely justified. "Koca tavriviri te kao o te meika." "The stem of the banana is twisted."

WONG LOOK IS DEAD.

He Made Several Unsuccessful Attempts at Self-Destruction.

Wong Look, the Chinaman recently tried, convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life for killing a boy, and who, during the trial, jumped from a window of the court house, died in Oahu prison yesterday afternoon. During the past five or six days the Mongol had refused to partake of food, unless the guards would stand by and compel him. After they left the man would vomit what he had eaten. He was intent upon committing suicide, and having made ineffectual attempts by other means, concluded to take the starvation route.

When brought to prison from the police station Look told Jailer Low that he intended to commit suicide, preferring so to do rather than suffer confinement. The prisoner was closely watched. Everything was taken from him that might be of use in hurrying his departure from the world, even to the braid on his cue. He was then dressed in a coarse suit of prison stripes.

Having nothing at hand to assist in ending his life, Look took delight in doubling up his tongue and trying to swallow it. In order that this might not be accomplished the hands of the prisoner were tied with a soft leather band.

Previous to his trial Look made several attempts to end his earthly career. While confined in the police station he threw his head against the edge of a bunk, but only got his eyes blacked for the trouble. Still bent of destroying himself, the Chinaman broke from the guard in the Circuit court room and jumped from one of the windows to the ground, a distance of forty feet. Shortly after being turned over to Jailer Low the much-want-to-die Chinaman slipped away from one of the guards and ran up and jumped off the Ewa corridor of the jail, twenty-five feet, without sustaining the least injury.

The several attempts of Look to commit suicide, together with his refusal to eat, made him very weak. His demise was very sudden; the prison surgeon declared after an examination that the man had sustained serious internal injuries, which were primarily the cause of death.

The First Telephone.

The Sheffield Telegraph gives the following interesting account of the first telephone of which there is record:

The first telephone that was ever used was not electrical, nor was it a scientific instrument in any sense of the term. A little more than fifty years ago the employees of a large manufactory beguiled their leisure hours by kite flying. Kites large and small went up daily, and the strife was to see who could get the largest. The twine that held them was the thread spun and twisted by the ladies of the village.

One day to the tail of the largest kite was attached a kitten, sewed in a canvas bag, with a netting over the mouth to give it air. When the kite was at its greatest height, some two hundred feet or more, the mewling of the kitten could be distinctly heard by those holding the string. To the clearness of the atmosphere was attributed the hearing of the kitten's voice. This is the first account we remember of speaking along the line.

Her Error.

"I see that you have been buying a bicycle," he caustically remarked, as they sat side by side on the sofa. "Yes."

"Cash or installment?" "Two dollars a week," she admitted.

And thus it was she unknowingly caused him to postpone his proposal for nearly a year.—Indianapolis Journal.

ASK FOR NEW ROAD.

Kona Residents Desire Extensive Improvements.

KAILUA (N. Kona, Hawaii), Dec. 2.—Saturday, November 30th, another meeting, attended by most of the principal residents of Kona, was held in the Holualoa school-house, to consider the matter of the reconstruction of the upper main road through the two districts. A profile plan of the present road, prepared by Mr. Bruner under instructions from the Superintendent of Public Works, was pinned up round the room. This for all the world looked like the representation of a longitudinal section of a mountain range, as the present road runs up hill and down dale like the trail of a cow making for water. It is understood that Mr. Kowell has instructed Mr. Bruner to go ahead and survey the proposed new road and to make estimates of its cost.

The matter for discussion was whether it was better policy to keep on patching this trail or to relocate the entire road at a proper grade before the settlement, and consequent improvements raised the cost of right of way to a prohibitive point. The only objectors were two gentlemen who thought that if the residents asked for only a little they might get it, but that if the request was large they were certain to get nothing—an opinion that was not considered by the rest of the meeting as complimentary to the present Government.

A committee of three was appointed to put into shape the ideas expressed at the meeting, to report at a meeting to be held at Kailua Monday the 9th inst. The meeting then adjourned to be continued outside for a considerable time in a lively discussion of details.

Second Lieutenant W. E. Rowell will be the ranking officer of Battery Company D, N. G. H., after today, First Lieutenant-Commanding James L. Torbert having tendered his resignation. Mr. Torbert regrets very much to leave Company D, but the increased duties of his commercial position and home ties makes it necessary for him to do so.

THE PERKINS WINDMILL

Is new in this country, but in the United States, THOUSANDS are in use, and on account of their superior strength and easy running qualities, they have taken FIRST RANK among windmills.

We have just received a car load of Mills and can furnish on short notice STEEL GALVANIZED MILLS of 8, 10, and 12-foot diameter and WOOD MILLS of 8, 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18-foot diameter. We have DIRECT MOTION windmills for places where there are steady strong winds, and geared mills which will run in very light winds, but cannot pump so fast as the direct motion mills. Some of our mills have oiled bearings of the most approved kinds, and some the CELEBRATED GRAPHITE BEARINGS, which will run for years without any oil; also STEEL GALVANIZED TOWERS 30 and 40 feet high.

SEND FOR THE

Perkins Catalogue

And read the description of the geared mills for farmers and stockmen. With the use of shafting and pulleys they can be made to grind corn or barley, cut fodder, turn a grindstone and saw your wood.

Wooden Towers can be erected if preferred, and we give directions for the timber and erection. We have also Gould's Lifting and Force.

for house or windmill use. We can furnish redwood tanks, also, of all sizes from 600 gallons to 10,000 gallons made in the best way and of the best clear redwood.

The perfect satisfaction that the Perkins Windmills and the Goulds Pumps have given wherever they have been used and properly adjusted is a guarantee of their success. Try the Perkins Mill and get something that will stand the strongest wind and yet work well in the lightest Southerly wind.
